suicide there are certain protocols that must be taken. Doc. 89-11, Merit Board Hearing - M. Tracey-20240830_100444-Meeting Recording.mp4at 33:48-34:09. She also understood that when she heard Plaintiff's threats and Defendant Tracey's taunts at the cell door that, based on her training under the policies and procedures of the RCSO, she was required to treat that as a medical emergency. 89. As part of her training on suicide intervention and prevention, Defendant Tracey and other RCSO detention deputies would role play intervention, which included methods to restrain the detainee, dress them in the appropriate gear, shower them, take them to see a nurse, and then place them in a padded suicide prevention cell. Tracey Dep. 20:20-21:5.

Ability to avoid harm

96. Defendant Tracey denies that she said “do it” to Plaintiff. Doc. 89-11, Merit Board Hearing - M. Tracey-20240830_100444-Meeting Recording.mp4 at 01:03:00. Defendant Jackson claims that she has the discretion in determining whether to report a threat of suicide. Jackson Dep. 80:8–13. But she agreed with the Merit Board that she had none. Doc.

89-11, Merit Board Hearing - M. Tracey-20240830_100444-Meeting Recording.mp4 at 33:48-34:09.
